

Code of Conduct

Purpose

This code applies to all employees, contractors, and anyone acting on behalf of Northwind Systems. It sets the minimum standard of behaviour. Local law always takes precedence where it is stricter.

Respect at work

Northwind does not tolerate harassment, discrimination, bullying, or retaliation. This applies in the office, at remote work locations, at company events, and in company communication channels.

Conflicts of interest

Declare any outside employment, board position, or financial interest in a supplier, customer, or competitor. Declarations go to Legal and Compliance within 14 days of the interest arising. Holding under 1 percent of a publicly traded company does not require declaration.

Gifts and hospitality

You may accept gifts with a value under 100 dollars. Gifts valued between 100 and 250 dollars require manager approval and must be recorded in the gift register. Gifts above 250 dollars must be declined. Cash and cash equivalents may never be accepted, at any value.

Confidential information

Company information, customer data, and employee data may only be used for the purpose it was collected for. Do not paste confidential information into external tools or services that have not been approved by IT and Legal.

Reporting a concern

Raise concerns with your manager, with People Operations, or through the anonymous ethics line. Northwind prohibits retaliation against anyone who reports a concern in good faith.

Reports are acknowledged within 3 business days. The detailed investigation procedure is maintained by People Operations and is not published to all staff.

Consequences

Breaches may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination, and where relevant, referral to law enforcement.
